An ode to the importance of living in the present.

Do you ever think about the future? Do you like to imagine it or does it sometimes scare you? Incredible things may happen tomorrow but that tomorrow still awaits us. NOW you are here, and there is life and beauty all around us: the sound of waves inside a shell, a warm hand holding yours or a hug to chase away your fears. A poetic reminder to cherish the here and the NOW.

Carmen Mateo is a psychologist who uses children's literature as a tool with her patients and as a moment for family enjoyment. Although her professional career started in Psychology, she soon crossed paths with stories, as a fan and, later, as their author.

Paco Ortega is graduated in Fine Arts, and has been working as a graphic designer since 2004. His first illustrated album was published in 2016. He has published almost a dozen illustrated albums with different publishers, as a full author or only as an illustrator. In his work stands out the sensitivity in each of the projects he tackles.

Swirling Autumn!

Christine Naumann-Villemin & Oréli Gouel

Autumn is coming, with its multicolored leaves swirling...

Autumn has arrived! The ground, covered with leaves, is like a large red, yellow and orange mattress. The forest animals are celebrating: Zipette does the peanut pirouette, Nanard plays hide and seek, Pétou plays the foul. But with all these leaves, Zipette can no longer find his nuts. She hopes they will come and sweep the forest soon. Sweep the forest? Her friends are surprised. Obviously, explains Zipette, otherwise there would be leaves on the ground all the time! Nobody had thought of that...

But when a powerful autumn wind surprises them, our little friends must take shelter. A real race then begins to avoid flying away with the leaves...

The Great Journey to Rosalie

Nadine Brun-Cosme & Lui Mort

A letter from a dear friend will be the start of a great journey.

Today Tom and Tim received a letter from their good friend Rosalie. She had gone on a little trip around the world, and she wrote to them that she stopped in such a pretty place. "Come," she wrote, "I'm waiting for you! I miss you so much..." With fields, a river, a mountain, a big canyon... Tom and Tim are a little scared: they never left. But it's Rosalie, their great friend! And off we go for a long journey full of wonderful encounters with new friends who will help our two globetrotters cross the river, climb the mountain, fly over the canyon and find their dear Rosalie. An ode to friendship, courage and mutual aid.

I Am Water

Lorena Ruiz

NEW!

Follow the voice of water on a fascinating journey.

From the polar ice to the wetlands, from the underground caverns to the immensity of the ocean, water is transformed one after another in its infinite cycle. Narrated in a poetic and relatable tone, the book turns the water cycle into a living experience: the reader accompanies each transformation – snow, ice, river, steam, rain, sea— while discovering how water sustains the life of animals, plants and people. At the end of the book, a brief informative epilogue expands and clearly explains concepts such as the water cycle, its states, and its importance for living beings, offering a framework for further exploration and conversation.

Friendship is a Very Serious Thing

Mónica Grobert & Daniela Beracochea

A very serious thing indeed.

A curious girl, between questions and shared dreams, tries to decipher what it means to have a true friend. With a sensitive and poetic text, expressive and colorful illustrations and original music by Sol Rajchman, this book celebrates that unique bond: the first bonds, the traces that intertwine, the small great lessons that are born from affection and company.

It is an ideal book for those who believe that friendship –like music– can transform the simplest days into something extraordinary. And when friendship grows, it multiplies: a friend, another friend, and another... until forming a community of affections that accompanies, sustains and makes the encounter a celebration, a shared history.

My Travel Diary

Melina Barrera & Nono Pautasso

Anything is fit for a notebook: real and imaginary memories and desires.

My travel diary invites you to travel the world from the curious look of a girl who writes, draws and saves memories in her notebook while discovering amazing places, aromas, sounds and scenes. With poetic language and loaded with images, the book recreates the intimate and playful experience of recording a trip. She includes what has been experienced and also what she had dreamed of: the mountain from where you can touch the moon, a forest illuminated by fireflies, a party in the snow, a trip to space. The result is an affective and sensory map where each reader can recognize themselves, travel and be inspired to create their own blog.

José Carlos Andrés, teacher by career choice, he never worked as such because he met theatre. When he went on stage for the first time, he discovered that making his audience laugh is something as magic as a fairy broom or a witch wand, but it takes you even further. He started writing theatre for children. He is fascinated by writing, because it allows him to create new worlds full of laughter and emotions. He has published theatre plays for children and families, a theatre guide, storytelling, theatre art and clowning for all ages, stories for picture books.

Sonja Wimmer loves painting pictures and telling stories. After studying and working some years as a graphic designer, she decided to pack her suitcase and move to Barcelona to study Illustration at the "Llotja" Arts and Crafts School. Modern-Day Princesses

Luis Amavisca & Dolores Brown & Sonja Wimmer

NEW EDITION!

You've probably stood next to a princess without even realizing it. We're surrounded by them.

When we think of princesses, we imagine castles and fairy tales, princes and dragons, but not all princesses belong to the realm of fantasy. There are princesses all around us. There are princesses who work, pursue their dreams, live love stories, take care of others and themselves... Modern-day princesses. You surely know one; perhaps the cashier at the supermarket, your classmate, or your mother, your grandmother, or even you!

The Great Carousel in the Forest

Nadine Brun-Cosme & Annick Masson

This morning, bear cubs, hedgehogs, squirrels and fox cubs wake up with a start: a very strange music resonates over there, in the clearing. Funny little animals, mounted on funny wooden animals, go round and round, laughing out loud. And what is this big wooden circle with this beautiful hat? When the big circle stops, we change animals and everything starts spinning again until nightfall. What a marvel! It's time to go examine the mysterious machine. And the big carousel starts spinning again, with teddy bears, hedgehogs, squirrels and fox cubs installed on wood animals. All night long, it spins and laughs. One evening, little Jeannot, who forgot his hat, returns to the carousel... to experience a wonderful adventure.

A book to discover all the universe we all carry within.

Just like the birds, the plants, and the rivers, we are part of this universe. And even if we seem small, our presence in the world is as important as the light of the Sun. Our ancestors recognized the cycles of nature and the magic of knowing ourselves alive.

A book that shows how traditions remain within us throughout family and natural history.

Carolina Garzón Blanco is a graphic designer and completed postgraduate studies at the EINA University of Barcelona, where she specialized in narrative illustration for children's and youth publications. Her work has appeared in print and digital media, participating in textbooks, children's and youth literature, children's magazines, animation projects and social initiatives. She has also shared her experience as a workshop leader in poetry and illustration spaces, bringing her creative process closer to children and young people.

Newcomers: threat or a great beginning of something amazing?

When Honey Bear arrives in the village and starts living in the house formerly occupied by Hulotte the owl, there is consternation among the inhabitants.

Who is this intruder, this fat, lazy slob who moves into the neighbor's house and spends his time napping? And who neglects the garden and the house?

But when a huge swarm of bees invades the village, the neighbors have to ask for help, and who else but a bear can help them? Honey Bear takes matters into his own hands and goes to the bookshop to pick up a small beekeeper's manual. He's decided to tame the bees and get himself a job at the same time!

Mylène Rigaudie was a breeder of newts, crickets, cockchafer beetles and other insects as a child and has retained her curiosity and meticulous attention to detail, which she incorporates into her drawings... She now illustrates for a number of French publishers, including Casterman, Nathan, Milan and Lito and makes her own honey too in a small village in the Lit region in South-West France!

Daide Cali & Federico Appel

None of these frightening pranks seem to scare Wolf and Fox until...

Wolf and Fox, inseparable friends and pranksters, decide one day to leave the forest after a failed adventure in a henhouse. On their way to a new life, they spend their time joking and challenging each other. When night falls, they decide to stop at a haunted castle. Greeted by a mummy, a headless waiter and dancing ghosts, they laugh at each scare, convinced that the other is playing tricks on them. Between lightning, macabre music and monsters under the bed, nothing seems to be able to scare them. Until early morning when a big surprise awaits them in front of the manor...

My Forest

Patricia Strauch & Noe Garin

What if one day a forest started growing in your head?

This story begins with this poetic and powerful image. Filled with plants, trees and animals, the forest in the narrator’s head becomes a wild, magical place—until too many people arrive and everything changes. How do we live with others without losing ourselves? What happens when something wonderful becomes too much? With subtlety and charm, My Forest explores our bond with nature and the balance between growth, sustainability and community. It is an invitation to look inward—and outward—and to discover that if we work together to protect ourselves and nature, the most incredible forests can bloom.

Princess Picky and the Royal Tantrum

Sandra Alonso & Pam López

A charming tale about patience, gratitude, and learning to go with the flow!

A very prim and proper princess is so used to getting her way that when things don’t go as planned, she feels terribly frustrated. Luckily, a wise little ladybug will help her understand what it really means to be demanding.

This book explores frustration, the importance of letting things flow, appreciating what we have, and allowing time to work its magic—all wrapped in humor and wisdom from a tiny ladybug that will make readers reflect and smile.

Dan is Growing Series

Nicolás Schuff & Paula Fernández & Mariana Ruiz Johnson

Picture books

The Brave Toothless Dan

Dn's first baby tooth fell out and left a small window in his mouth, through which he goes out to play and explore with his friends. Because any window, even the smallest, widens the limits of the world.

Dan Grows up to China

Every birthday, Dan makes a mark on the map taped to his bedroom wall. Last year it went all the way to India. Now it goes all the way to China! What will he do when he grows up and the map is too small, like his favorite T-shirt? How many days are in a year? How many memories are in a day?

Dan Inside and Out

Where does what we eat go? How does the heart work? And the brain? While playing and cooking, Dan and his grandfather discover that their bodies are made of muscles and bones, but also of memories and shared laughter.

An ideal series for first readings about growth and emotions combining fiction and non-fiction.

The Prodigy Club Series

Eric Moral & Nil López

The Return of Magic (vol. 1)

When Eko, a curious teenager obsessed with the paranormal, founded The Prodigy Club with his best friends Sira and Soren, he never imagined that his fictional adventures would come to life. What begins as a small podcast of unsolved mysteries takes an unexpected turn on a summer night, when the Club crosses paths with Laia, a girl trapped in an old farmhouse that hides a portal to a magical world. With the help of a talking hedgehog, Laia leads the Club on a dangerous mission: to open the portal and unveil the secrets her family has kept for generations.

The Curse of the Werewolf (vol. 2)

The Prodigy Club receives its first mission: to enter the world of lycanthropy. They think they are prepared, but theory is not enough for everything they will experience. Werewolves, curses and dangerous decisions will test their friendship and courage. Will they be able to protect the real and magical worlds before it is too late? And you, will you be able to guide them?

The third title of a magical and interactive make-your-own-story series!

The Prodigy Club has just recovered from its first official mission, which took them into the mysterious world of werewolves. Eager for more adventures, things get complicated when a follower of their channel, who turns out to be a self-help guru, asks Eko for a list of invulnerable beings with healing abilities and mind-control powers. His name is Uve, and he wants to become the most powerful being in the world. To achieve this, he begins stealing powers from the fantastic creatures he encounters. Each time he manages to steal a power from a being in the magical world, he not only adopts a physical trait but also becomes increasingly unhinged. In this third installment, the Prodigy Club will travel the world through portals to try and stop Uve. Otherwise, he could become a completely unpredictable threat.

The Violent Battles of Queen Pushpin

Quim Crusellas & Aina Bonet

A fun story of kingdoms, queens, knights and fantastic beings.

Queen Pushpin's horse can't walk. Unfortunately, the palace coffers are empty and they can't buy another one. Governor Cap has a great idea: they'll find the bravest person in the kingdom, make him a general, declare war on another country and take home a good booty!

So they order Hercules to declare war on the evil witches. However, they're not bad. On the contrary, they prepare a very good soup for them! The queen doesn't want to lose sight of her goal and sends them to declare war on the ogres, but they end up making a mess; and on the sirens, but their songs distract the soldiers. It seems that waging war wasn't as easy as they thought!

Todas las demoras, la reina Chincheta salió del palacio para pasear con su caballo. Le gustaba que le guiaran del otro lado, saltando y corriendo a su paso. Pero ese día, le llevaron también un caballo feo.
 -¡Qué cosa, qué cosa! -preguntó la reina.
 -¡El caballo está rojo, no me parece... ¡No puede caminar! -respondió el caballo.
 La reina observó al caballo. Tenía la pata atada y no podía saltar en el suelo con que le daban.

La reina Chincheta, impresionada, nombró a Hercules como el general del su ejército.
 -¡Quiero un gran general! -le dijo.
 -Ser general es un honor, señora, pero no puedo ir a la guerra -le dijo Hercules, que no estaba del todo convencido. -De hecho, me creo que está bien estar de aprender a la guerra buena.
 El gobernador quería asegurarse antes con Hercules.
 -No te preocupes, sólo tienes que declarar la guerra a quien te lo mande. Si puedes, con guerra buena.
 La reina volvió su caballo y dijo:
 -¡Quiero comparar el peso de los brujos. Todo el mundo sabe que los brujos son malos. Son los hechiceros, los malos pastores malagatos para enseñar a la guerra. Si un mal hechicero me trae la guerra a las brujas...
 -¡Te lo obligo a traer un gran hechicero -añadió la reina.

A park, like so many others, is the home of four friends.

A dog disappears without a trace and his three friends decide to go looking for him, venturing to strange places. A comic book that shines in both aesthetics and plot. The narrative time is slow, in short chapters and with short texts, it introduces us to the simple world of the park. The characters' steps go at the pace of the little readers' steps and lead them through paths of mystery, adventure, humor... and lots of love, because as good friends, these dogs take care of each other and accompany each other in good times and bad.

- * Outstanding in Children's Comics by Alija Ibbby Argentina 2017

Milo and Loberto become instant friends. And that's because they're both equally monstrous!

Through Milo (a small, freckled bat) and his new friend Loberto, we experience humorous adventures and everyday situations while learning about them, their environment, and their unique way of interacting. The book is structured into twenty different stories, with minimal text, making it suitable for younger (and older) readers. Each story features a maximum of six panels per page with a modern font and design that emphasizes the expressiveness of the illustrations.

Gastón Caba is an illustrator, character designer, and teacher. He has worked with clients such as Adidas, Benetton, and Sony PlayStation, with a particular focus on Asian audiences. In 2005, he launched an ambitious project called Ping Pong Remix, which brought him to prominence and invited over 70 artists from around the world to reinterpret his work. was awarded in 2017 as Outstanding in Children's Comics by Alija Ibbby Argentina.

The two faces of bullying in schools

Julia just wants to be part of the team and have friends. But when Marina, the team captain, cheats in a competition and wins, she knows she can't keep quiet. After letting everyone know what has happened, Julia suddenly stops being Julia and becomes a traitor, a snitch. Marina just wants to win. To prove to everyone that she is the best. The team is her life and taking advantage of a small mistake in the game to win is not the same as cheating, everyone knows that... except for Julia, who ruins everything. In the eyes of the coach, Marina becomes a liar, and, from one day to the next, she loses everything. It's obvious that she can't pretend as if nothing is going on.

de pequeña poder meterse ahora en la piel de un personaje hasta tres veces por semana le parecía fascinante y liberador a partes iguales. Solo de Antónima, así se hacía llamar, una ella del bosque de ciento cincuenta años que atesora experiencias, pero y habilidades mágicas.

Aí es como había aprendido la lección en cuestión de semanas, y pronto desempeñaba su función con efectividad y siempre que la necesitaban. Formaba parte del primer equipo, y la hacía sentirse bien en el día que corrían en ella. Era la Anel del grupo, debía ir corriendo a las demás a medida que recibían impactos de arena, dragones o lo que fuese que caían en cada una de las zonas a las que se enfrentaban mientras que Marina se encargaba de los ataques directos y Andrea vigilaba el entorno por si aparecían nuevas amenazas. Las demás servían de carne de cañón, se encargaban de las misiones secundarias o esperaban para hacer alguna réplica si alguna del primer equipo fallaba.

Puede que no fuese el equilibrio perfecto, pero era un equilibrio y eso, cuando se trataba de competir en equipo, ya era mucho decir.

Y ahora ahí estaban, en una competición oficial, algalgas en un hotel, algo impensable meses atrás. Malena era la gran final, y hoy tenían que estar contentos. Luchaban de ganar las semifinales!

Pero Marina no dejó el tema.

Fernando Llor studied cinematographic arts. He has worked as a content editor, screenwriting teacher, and camera operator. He has also been a screenwriter and director of short films. He has published some comics, published in Spain, France and the United States.

Nil López is a self-taught freelance illustrator. His illustrations play with contrasts and have a youthful and fresh style very characteristic.

Misfortunes of a Victorian Family

Idoia Iribertegui

No cats were harmed in the making of this project.

This is a funny, absurd, ironic and improbable drama. Even so, considering the wonderful stories that the Victorian era has inspired, no one might think that this cursed family could have existed. With allusions that remind us of Edgar Allan Poe, Dickens and especially Edward Gorey this story pretends nothing more than to entertain with images of an era and a vanished greatest time of the history. All page handmade graphite illustrations.

Lucas Kent & Greta Rouge Series

Rocio Bonilla

Author with 1,000,000 copies sold!

This is How It All Started (vol. 1)

I was a normal boy, with a normal family. But a letter changed everything: my great-great-grandfather left us a big mansion as an inheritance and my parents had no time to organize the move. New neighborhood, new house, new school, new friends. In other words, a disaster! Nothing was even halfway normal, let alone the mystery hidden in that house on the hill. So let's find out how it all started...

Rights sold to: Spanish, Catalan, German, Ukrainian, Italian, French, Portuguese (PT), Greek, Turkish, Russian.

Ghosts Don't Exist, Right? (vol. 2)

Greta, Federico and I had to invent something for school science fair. I went to the library in search of a great idea, but what I found wasn't exactly inspiration. You won't believe what happened! I had to scarp out of there. If I told my friends that, I'd sound like a chicken; but, come on, let's be real... Ghosts don't exist, do they?

Lost Civilizations

Rena Ortega

Some civilizations disappeared, but their stories are still very much alive.

Have you ever dreamed of time travel? Discover the secrets that hide the pyramids, temples or statues carved in the rock? Can you imagine what it would be like to walk down a street in ancient Rome? Why were Celtic warriors so feared or bulls worshiped by the Minoans? Or which civilization invented objects you use every day? You don't need a machine to do it. You just have to open this book and read the pages. Kings and sages, gods carved in stone, clay cities, pyramids scratching the sky and mysterious islands lost in the ocean await you.

From Afar

Laufer

An ode to freedom, instinct and the beauty of flight.

Nature comes to visit us anywhere, even in the city. While we are busy with our daily chores, herons, swifts or starlings fly through the sky. Perhaps we can see them if we look up for a moment, while the warm breeze caresses our skin in spring or with the freshness that makes the leaves turn orange and fall swaying by the wind in autumn. Zerooo

Mariana Alcántara

Zero can be more than a number.

One day, a magic trick makes zero appear: a silent ghost that questions everything. From that moment on, the book turns complex ideas into everyday scenes: how many zeros are in a million, what's inside a hole or an empty sock, and whether zero frightens us or keeps us company. With humor, evocative images, and open-ended questions, it invites children to think about numbers beyond math —seeing them as part of language, of time, and even of their own identity.

Andean

Olaya Sanfuentes & Luisa Rivera

The Andes are not just a place, but a confluence of different cultures. Discover them all!

The Andes mountain range stretches from Venezuela to the southern tip of the continent. But Andino goes beyond geography: it explores a living territory where mountains, coasts, and rainforests intertwine. This book reveals that “the Andean” is not just a place, but a way of life — a confluence of cultures that share roots, changes, and continuities. Inspired by the peoples of the ancient Tawantinsuyu and their descendants, Andino invites us to understand a shared identity that continues to evolve. Because the Andean world does not belong only to the past: it is present, and it is future.

Have you ever wondered how wolves live?

This book invites you to explore their world, from their howls to their footprints in the snow. You will learn about their customs, their way of communicating and how they adapt to the environment.
 An essential read for those curious about nature!

Rena Ortega is an illustrator, graphic designer, explorer of the world, and activist of passion, color and the natural world. She loves to paint in watercolor, and also works digitally drawing children picture books, especially the ones related to nature, travel and exploration. Her work about whales has been exhibited at the Húsavík Whale Museum, Iceland.

Vikings

Rena Ortega

NEW!

They conquered the seas, changed history and they were unstoppable.

Much more than fearsome warriors, the Vikings were extraordinary navigators, bold explorers, and organized communities. From Scandinavia they launched themselves into frozen seas, discovered new lands such as Iceland, Greenland and North America, and built trade networks that connected half the world. In this book you will discover how they lived, how they traveled, how they fought, what they believed in, how they dressed, what they ate and what stories they told about gods, heroes and mythical creatures. You will also learn about the role of Viking women, present in the daily life, exploration and culture of their people.

Don't Be a Fascist!

Jordi Borràs & Kerrature

SOON

A Young Guide to Stay Away from Hate Speech

Fear. Hate. Discrimination. Violence. The discourse of fascism has not changed, but its channels have. The emergence of social networks in our lives has allowed us to connect with the rest of the world and find other people who share our tastes, but they are also a channel that the far right uses to spread lies and fear. They can cause a fire that seems impossible to put out. So what do we do when the flames enter our homes?

Through examples, exercises and illustrations, you will put a name, face and eyes to the strategies that the far right uses to manipulate us. And, above all, you will understand the importance of critical thinking and social relationships.

Jordi Borràs is an illustrator, photojournalist and writer. He has specialized in social issues, with a special interest in national and far-right movements that operate throughout Europe. He currently works as a freelance graphic reporter in different media. His podcast has been nominated for the Ondas Awards and has won the Best Non-Fiction Podcast Award at the III Sonor Awards (2024).

Queralt Guinart (Kerrature) is an artist and illustrator. Her artistic career moves between unique pieces and short vignettes with a strong graphic charge, but she also delves into poetry and narrative. Her forceful and versatile style puts the everyday lives of LGBTQ+ people at the center of her work, drawing the less contemplated stories of society with a tender language, without ever losing her critical and revolutionary voice.

Sofia Searches an Adventure

Lu Paul

Curiosity, imagination and the pleasure of looking again and again.

Curious, observant and restless, the protagonist of this book goes out in search of an adventure and the whole world becomes her stage: what is above the earth and below it, in the air, at the bottom of the sea, in space and also in past time. Each double page displays wide and detailed landscapes, populated by characters and small stories that invite you to stop. Animals, people, pirates, mermaids, ghosts and aliens coexist in scenes full of humor, surprise and emotion. The journey Sofia undertakes - from bottom to top, from front to back, from yesterday to tomorrow - invites us to wonder if the true adventure will not be, deep down, learning to look with eyes wide open at everything amazing, magical and strange that surrounds us.

Christmas
ALERT

A Christmas to Remember

Patricia Casasola & Xiana Teimoy

A story that shines like a snowball: each memory, a gift.

Fox isn't feeling very Christmassy this year... until he starts going through his snowballs one by one. Each one with a fond memory. Through them he relives magical moments with his great friend Beaver: from his first gift to the last Christmas they shared. A story about friendship, the passage of time and the memories we keep in our hearts.

Throughout thirteen scenes, readers will discover how the value of friendship, generosity, cooperation and caring makes each ball shine.

WITH A MAGNETIC CLIP THAT KEEPS THE BOOK OPEN LIKE A SNOWBALL ON THE SHELF!

Creactivities Series

Blanca Millán

Creactivities for Christmas

Christmas holidays are shorter than they seem. What if you visit your loved ones, what if you stay warm, what if you eat many times... In this book you can find many activities to maximize the most magical moments of the year. From the winter solstice until the first week of the New Year, prepare material, because you won't get bored.

Pub. year: 2023

Creactivities for Summer

Cut, dip, paint, shine, splash, drink and rest until fall arrives. Now that you won't have to go to school, we'll have to spend the good time doing something cooler than getting up early, right? Since we are very into recycling with creativity, what better idea than to build games and enjoy sunny days doing crafts with which to surprise everyone?

Pub. year: 2024

Creactivities for Autumn

Autumn's turn has arrived with a very special touch: recipes and crafts to enjoy the season of fallen leaves and Halloween with the family. Witches, ghosts, pumpkins and monstrous creatures mix with simple recipes and imaginative crafts that turn any fall afternoon into a creative party. This book offers clear explanations, easy-to-obtain materials and surprising results.

Let's open this story that really never closes.

This book is the key that opens the door to the universe of stories, which never quite closes. Starting with the classic opening phrase, the story proposes a narrative game that repeats "once, and again, and again," inviting young readers to immerse themselves in a circular and dynamic tale where five friends star in this story that ends and then begins again, a device that arouses curiosity and encourages active participation. The repetitive structure promotes anticipation, memory, and enjoyment of the rhythm of language.

Perhaps the best way to enjoy stories is to share them.

The Fox loves to read; he likes it so much that he spends the day with his nose in books: at playground time, before going to bed and even when his friends ask him to play! But one day, his favorite book disappears. Where can it have gone? And if it's in the forest? Determined, she goes out to find him with the help of her little brother and the other animals, and together they live an adventure that they will remember forever.

Mar Picó is a screenwriter and writer. In her stories she always depicts complex and human characters with realistic and light dialogues.

"Wow, being Mom is exhausting..." thought Jonah. "Maybe... Maybe I could be like Dad... and go to work on the subway!"

But of course the subway was packed at rush hour. And Jonah was so little that all the gigantic people didn't even see him.

School is really boring but maybe the alternatives are not funnier.

When Jonah wakes up one day he decides he absolutely does not want to go to school! He wants to go back to kindergarten like his little sister, Lena. But when he gets there, he soon discovers that it's not as fun as he thought – there are crying babies everywhere who snatch his toys from him! Disappointed with Kindergarten, he decides to go to work like his mom and dad – surely they have much more fun than he does at school! But when he gets to work, there's nothing but boring things to do and it's exhausting! After such a busy day, Jonah decides that maybe school isn't so bad after all...

This night, back at home, Jonah had to change Dad's diaper and help Mom blow her nose.
"Put on your pajamas, Dad!" said Jonah.
"No, no, no!" Dad shouted.

Dad slipped onto the floor and threw a temper tantrum.
"Mom, stop picking your nose!"

He also had to read them a bedtime story and make sure they got to sleep.

Amélie Groux is a writer and an illustrator. She is a well-renowned international artist who was born in Paris in 1977. She studied animation in Paris and directed her first and only short film Who wants some liver paté?, awarded at the Annecy Festival. She has illustrated several books with publishers such as Gallimard, Flammarion, Milan, Nathan, Didier Jeunesse, Little Urban and NubeOcho.

Marta Comín graduated in Fine Arts. She uses writing and illustration as a means to observe, reflect and discover unusual formal and conceptual relationships. A space to ask questions, away from the rush, embracing amazement and humor. Through the arrangement of color, the synthesis of drawing and the proportion between full and empty, she manages to articulate a concise and direct language, which finds its main references in the children's books of Paul Rand and Fredun Shapur, the collages of Matisse or the graphics of Ikko Tanaka.

Humor, art... And a great trophy!

Maria wins a giant trophy.
Her family can't believe it. What will they do with it?
What at first seems like a big problem will soon turn into an exciting game.
Will the big trophy find its place?
Amidst laughter, crazy ideas and a bit of creative chaos, the trophy becomes the center of an unexpected game.
A coat rack? A dining room ornament? Or perhaps? something much more surprising?

ABC of Tenderness

Cintia Roberts & María Belén Campero & Lui Mort

A book that transforms each letter into a gesture of affection.

This book is an invitation to explore the deepest of feelings and recover language as a genuine link, as a door that opens to inhabit affection and sensitivity. It is, at the same time, a dictionary focused on those words that bring us closer, that help us define relationships, attachment, love as a bridge of words and gestures.

The alphabets are an eternal and perfect resource to play with language, sounds and, at the same time, learn to relate ideas and concepts. It is this alphabetical order that will provide a thread to hold on to for this magical journey.

Sarbalap

María Luz Malamud & Angelina Montero

An Ode to Words.

Ah, words! That which we share with every single person in this world. No matter the language: language is the heritage we all have in common. Those words are the ones that help us enter the world, the ones that give us names, the ones that name things we love. What would we do without words? Without language?

This book is a beautiful story, a funny, mischievous and irreverent reflection on the world of sarbalap... sorry, of words. Where do the experts say they come from? Can anything be a word? What happens when a word is born and is incorporated, new and fresh, into the language? And what happens to those that retire? Where will they go? What are neologisms? And how do you differentiate words that are almost the same or, worse, that sound identical? Words can shred, they can fly in the wind, they can be read right side up and, of course, upside down.

Super Freddy

Luis Amavisca & Gusti

Being free as to just be a child is usually enough for children.

Super Freddy is very busy helping everyone and watching the streets so that nothing bad happens. But his supersuit breaks and he has to mend it, so he has a day off. Then he realizes that he loves flowers, playing in the park with other girls and boys, drawing and dancing.

He doesn't want to give up doing everything he loves just because he's not what superheroes do. Why can't superheroes be super brave and also super sensitive?

José Carlos Andrés, teacher by career choice, he never worked as such because he met theatre. When he went on stage for the first time, he discovered that making his audience laugh is something as magic as a fairy broom or a witch wand, but it takes you even further. He started writing theatre for children. He is fascinated by writing, because it allows him to create new worlds full of laughter and emotions. He has published theatre plays for children and families, a theatre guide, storytelling, theatre art and clowning for all ages, stories for picture books.

Luciano Lozano has been working in illustration since 2007, after completing a postgraduate course in Creative Illustration. He regularly collaborates with numerous publishers and magazines. His work has received awards and recognitions nationally and internationally.
